Route 5

In Praise of Aphrodite

From the birthplace of the Goddess of Love to ancient Kourion

A unique combination of exquisite coastal and mountainous scenery, this route takes you on a journey through Cyprus’ ancient history via its archaeological monuments, whilst also offering a varied experience of Cyprus’ natural landscapes. A half or full day trip, you will come across some of Cyprus’ wine villages, beautiful ancient monasteries, and Lemesos Salt Lake.

Starting from Lemesos drive north past Lemesos Port to get onto the long stretch of Lady’s Mile beach at Akrotiri Bay. This is a dirt road, with a rather rough terrain, so take care as you drive along. On the right hand side a barren landscape unfolds before you; on the left you encounter Lady’s Mile, an 8 kilometres beach with shallow waters, particularly popular with the locals. Here you will find a variety of restaurants, kiosks and coffee shops, ideal for a quick snack or a proper fish tavern style meal.

When you reach the last cafeteria, close to the end of the road, make a right inland. The road is not sign posted and may be hard to trace at first, but drive west and soon you’ll find yourself on a small road surrounded by the luscious vegetation of the Salt Lake, which you will encounter a bit further down on your right.

Take the first left and follow the road past the olive groves, until you come across the Agios Nikolaos ton Gaton Monastery, also known as The Holy Monastery of St. Nicholas of the Cats. As its name suggests, the monastery has for long been associated with felines. Take a few minutes to talk to the nuns who reside there, and ask them to tell you the story that surrounds the monastery. Situated on Cape Gata, a popular version of the legend tells that the monastery was founded in the 4th century BC by Saint Helen, mother of Constantine the Great, who brought hundreds of cats to Cyprus in order to deal with the huge snake population that drove locals away. In 1983, the monastery was assigned to a group of nuns, who to this day take care of a large number of unwanted cats that have been abandoned there.

As you leave the monastery behind, follow the road for a short drive to Akrotiri.

The natural landscape that surrounds you is not familiar to the rest of the island and Akrotiri, part of the Sovereign Base Areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia, has been a British Overseas Territory since 1960. The Salt Lake that borders the road to your right, covering an area of approximately 10 Km², is one of its most impressive sites. According to geologists, it is believed that the lake was formed after an offshore islet was gradually joined to the mainland. Thousands of birds stop over during the migration period, due to the fact that over half the lake is less than 30 cm deep. The Greater Flamingos are some of its most popular visitors, and it is considered to be one of the most important wetlands of the eastern Mediterranean.

As you exit Akrotiri, take a right and follow the road driving north to Kolossi, to find Kolossi Castle, a former Crusader stronghold. The original castle was built in 1210 by the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, known also as the Knights Hospitallers, but was destroyed during the Mameluke raids in 1425-26. The Great Commander Louis de Magnac, whose coat-of-arms can be seen on the castle’s walls, built the existing castle on the ruins. During the Middle Ages, this impressive stronghold was of great strategic importance – it also contained large facilities for the production of sugar, which was one of Cyprus’ main exports. This area is also famous for its sweet wine, Commandaria, known as the oldest continuously produced wine in the world. It is said that King Richard the Lionheart, upon tasting the wine, declared that it was the “wine of kings and the king of wines.”

Double back on the same road and take a right onto the main coastal road with an exquisite view of the Mediterranean sea on your left, and follow the signs for the Archaeological site of Kourion, one of the finest in Cyprus. This site contains many monuments such as the Theatre, the Public Baths, the Fountain House, the House of the Gladiators and the House of Achilles among others; many of these date to the Roman Period. Excavations are still taking place and new treasures are continuously coming to light. The highlight of the site is the Greco Roman theatre, which is now fully restored and used for musical and theatrical performances. It has unique acoustic qualities and offers exquisite views, an ideal location for a photography enthusiast.

About 3 kilometres down the road you come across the Sanctuary of Apollo Hylates on your right. Hylates, God of the Woodlands was the protector of the city of Kourion, celebrated here from the 8th century BC to the 4th century AD. This site is one of the most interesting architectural complexes in Cyprus, and gives us a window into the development of a Cypriot sanctuary, from the Bronze Age through to the end of paganism on the island.

Continue on the main coastal road past Avdimou and onto Pissouri Bay, another one of Cyprus’ turtle nesting sites and a Blue Flag awarded beach, at Cape Aspro. Rich in its production of Sultanina grapes, olives, carob and almonds, what makes this place stand out is the dramatic combination of sea and mountain as the main village is located on a higher altitude a few minutes away from the coast. The village square offers visitors a vast array of places for a break, including stone-built restaurants, formerly used as carob storage units.

A few kilometres down the road, while driving along one of the island’s most beautiful coastlines, lies Petra tou Romiou, a striking geological formation of large and tall rocks, better known as Aphrodite’s Rock. According to mythology, this is the birthplace of Aphrodite, the Greek goddess of love and beauty and daughter of Zeus and Dione, who rose from the foaming waves and traveled ashore on a shell to begin her worldly life. Perhaps the island’s most notable natural site and a stop on the Aphrodite Cultural route, “Petra tou Romiou” is literally translated as ‘the Rock of the Greek’ and is associated with the legendary Byzantine hero, Digenis Akritas. Legend has it that with one hand he grabbed hold of the Kyrenia mountain range thereby forming ‘Pentadaktylos’ (five fingers) mountain, while at the same heaving a huge rock and tossing it into the sea at the Saracens to keep them at bay. Opposite the site you’ll find a restaurant, cafe, and kiosk. The rocky beach of Petra tou Romiou is open to swimmers all year round and is especially popular with the helpless romantics and Greek mythology buffs.

Double back on the same road and take a left inland north of Pissouri to ascend to Alektora, known for its beautifully aligned vineyards. Travel from Alektora to the neighboring stone-built picturesque villages of Platanisteia and Agios Thomas to reach the village of Anogyra, on the southern slope of Troodos.

On your way to Anogyra, which is surrounded by carob orchards, you will come across the ruins of the Byzantine Monastery of Timios Stavros (Holy Cross) with is beautiful surviving frescoes.

Go up to the paved village square, where you will find the island’s only Carob Museum and Factory. The village is especially known for preserving the traditional method of making pastelli, a popular carob-based sweet, celebrated annually with the Pastelli Festival in September. Also worth a visit is the village’s 14th century limestone well.

Perched at a higher altitude on the southern slopes of Troodos, Pachna and its neighboring villages of Agios Amvrosios and Kato and Pano Kivides, boast reputable local wineries, worth a visit for anyone who would like to have a taste of the high quality wine produced in the area.

Within the village of Agios Amvrosios you’ll find the 14th century church dedicated to St. Ambrosios. A little outside the village, you could make a stop at chapel of Saint Elisabeth (16th century) with notable Byzantine frescos.

Drive south, past the Kouris dam to get to Kantou, with its 16th century limestone Byzantine chapel of Agia Napa, and then head to Erimi. Make a point of visiting the Cyprus Wine Museum for an informative journey through the history of Cyprus wine making. With the use of traditional and contemporary audiovisual aids, visitors get a glimpse into the cultivation, production, storage and consumption of wine in the past. Ancient vases and jars, mediaeval drinking vessels, old documents, instruments and other findings are sure to impress and inspire a new found appreciation for fine wine.

Follow the road back to Akrotiri and take a left at Asomatos to head back to Lemesos.

ENJOY YOUR STAY AND PLEASE HELP US KEEP THE ROADS OF CYPRUS SAFE FOR EVERYONE.
Enjoy a different kind of holiday in Cyprus off the beaten track in peace and tranquillity by staying in a restored traditional house in one of the island’s many picturesque villages.

Awaken to the sound of a cock crowing, or a donkey braying, take your breakfast in the shade of a vine with the smell of jasmine or wild thyme in the air, go for a long walk in the pine-scented forest, watch how the local bread and ‘halloumi’ cheese are made and experience rural living at first hand. And when the sun goes down, just lie back and enjoy Cyprus’ magical evenings gazing at one of the starriest skies you will ever see, lulled by the gentle sounds of the night crickets.

You will be given the warmest of welcomes, as Cypriots have a reputation for being hospitable, and you will certainly end up making many good friends before you leave. Don’t be surprised if your hosts go out of their way to treat you as one of the family, lavishing a veritable feast of local delicacies upon you.

Try everything by ordering ‘mezedes’ and wash it all down with one of the local beers or wines. Cyprus’ sweet Commandaria wine is one of the oldest in the world, and if you’re brave enough, have a shot of ‘zivania’, which is almost pure alcohol and packs a neat punch.

More than just for summer, Cyprus is perfect at any time of year. Blessed with an abundance of sunshine and warm year-round temperatures, it is a great place to enjoy winter...
sun, to avoid the crowds in the autumn and to marvel at nature’s springtime tapestry of colour. With rugged coasts and mountain peaks, sunny vineyards and cool pine forests, flat expanses of wheat fields and lush citrus orchards, the island has something for everyone.

And when you’ve had your fill of relaxing, you’ll find that in Cyprus there’s much to see and do. Play a round of golf, go cycling, or hiking round the countryside, or take up a new sport. Or wonder at spectacular Greek temples, opulent Byzantine churches and ancient artefacts that are the remnants of a civilisation going back 10,000 years.

The properties offered are a great base from where to explore the island. Carefully renovated to maintain their distinctive character, while including all modern conveniences, they are ideal for those seeking comfort and privacy in friendly and attractive surroundings.

Byzantine Churches and Monasteries

Many fine examples of Byzantine art have survived on the island that can be seen/admired both in painted churches with colourful frescoes and monasteries. Because of the eminent importance of the icons and frescoes, most churches and monasteries are kept locked. Therefore, visitors wishing to see any of these churches should first ask at the “coffee shop” of the village for the priest or any other responsible person who will escort them. The Cyprus Tourism Organisation’s publication “10,000 years of History and Civilisation” refers briefly to various churches and monasteries on the island. Some of the monasteries have visiting hours which have to be respected by visitors.

Important Notes:
- Wearing shorts, backless tops, very short dresses etc., should be avoided.
- The use of flash is prohibited as it may damage the icons and frescoes.
- No accommodation is available in the monasteries.
- Most of the monasteries and convents remain closed on Saturday or Sunday for group visits.
- It is advisable especially for certain monasteries e.g. Machairas and Agios Irakleidios that the guiding should be done outside the monasteries.
