

RURAL CYPRUS

A guide to traditional accommodation

AUTHENTIC CYPRUS

Discover it...

Cyprus enjoys an enviable worldwide sun and sea holiday destination with year-round sunshine, blue skies and warm waters. However, this fascinating island has much more to offer. Away from the tourist areas, the Cyprus countryside has a diverse wealth of its own with traditional villages, vineyards and wineries, tiny fresco-painted churches, remote forests.

Enjoy a different kind of holiday in Cyprus off the beaten track in peace and tranquillity by staying in a restored traditional house or a hotel in one of the island's many picturesque villages.

Awaken to the sound of a cock crowing, or a donkey braying, take your breakfast in the shade of a vine with the smell of jasmine or wild thyme in the air, go for a long walk in the pine-scented forest, watch how the local bread and halloumi cheese are made and experience rural living at first hand. And when the sun goes down, just lie back and enjoy Cyprus' magical evenings gazing at one of the starriest skies you will ever see, lulled by the gentle sounds of the night crickets.

AUTHENTIC CYPRUS

Discover it...

You will be given the warmest of welcomes, as Cypriots have a reputation for being hospitable, and you will certainly end up making many good friends before you leave. Don't be surprised if your hosts go out of their way to treat you as one of the family, lavishing a veritable feast of local delicacies upon you.

Try everything by ordering mezes and wash it all down with one of the local beers or wines. Cyprus' sweet Commandaria wine is one of the oldest in the world, and if you're brave enough, have a shot of zivania, which is almost pure alcohol and packs a neat punch.

More than just for summer, Cyprus is perfect at any time of the year. Blessed with an abundance of sunshine and warm year-round temperatures, it is a great place to enjoy winter sun, to avoid the crowds in the autumn and to marvel at nature's springtime tapestry of colour. With rugged coasts and mountain peaks, sunny vineyards and cool pine forests, flat expanses of wheat fields and lush citrus orchards, the island has something for everyone.

And when you've had your fill of relaxing, you'll find that in Cyprus there's much to see and do. Play a round of golf, go cycling, or hiking round the countryside, or take up a new sport. Or wonder at spectacular Greek temples, remarkable Byzantine churches and ancient artefacts that are the remnants of a civilisation going back 10,000 years.

The properties we offer are all licensed by the Cyprus Tourism Organisation and are a great base from where to explore the island. Carefully renovated to maintain their distinctive character, while including all modern conveniences, they are ideal for those seeking comfort and privacy in friendly and attractive surroundings. This guide will help you discover the hidden Cyprus.

PAFOS REGION

Feel the romance in the air in the land where Aphrodite, goddess of love and beauty, once roamed. Swim in the sea by the rocks known as Petra tou Romiou where she was believed to have risen from the waves, make a pilgrimage to her sanctuary at Kouklia, or visit the area near Polis where she was supposed to have bathed. The Pafos (Paphos) region is the perfect place to celebrate a wedding or go for your honeymoon. Pafos (Paphos) town, with its pleasant harbour and medieval fort, combines a cosmopolitan holiday resort, spectacular countryside and historical sites.

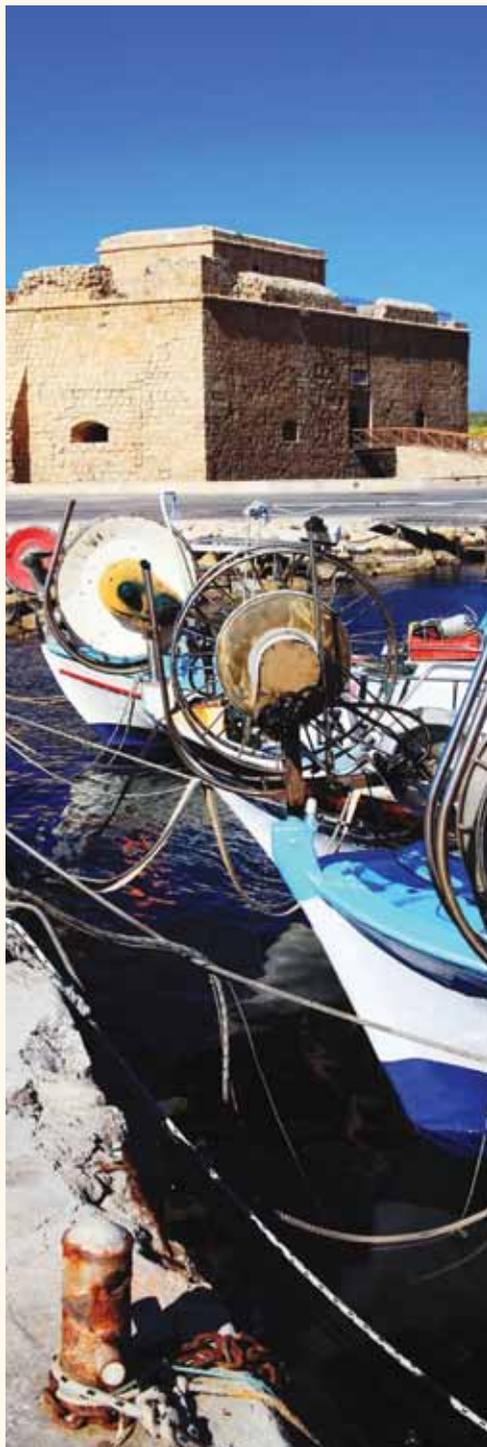

The region offers the possibility of combining sea and mountains as well as getting a taste of culture with its many archaeological sites. Admire the view at Maa-Paleokastro, the site on a peninsula near Coral Bay, where the Mycenaean Greeks first landed in Cyprus in the Bronze Age. Explore the inland by going on a wine tour of the villages, stopping off at Chryssorrogiatissa Monastery with its fine icons where you can get a taste of the locally produced vintage wine from its own winery.

Or indulge in one of the many activities available, from playing a round of golf at a premier golf resort, indulging in a sea sport, such as swimming, diving or sailing, or going for the thrill of a water park or karting centre. Head for the Polis area where you can experience a back-to-basics lifestyle staying in one of the many renovated traditional houses from where you can explore the countryside.

The Akamas peninsula is an area of natural wilderness with dramatic coastlines and sandy coves. Visit one of the last Mediterranean nesting grounds for the green and loggerhead turtles on the sandy beaches of Lara. Or walk along one of the many scenic nature trails spotting rare endemic plants that grow there, or watching migrating birds fly by overhead. Or take a boat trip along the spectacular coastline of what forms part of Aphrodite's playground.

CHOULOU VILLAGE

Some 22km from Pafos town lies the beautiful village Choulou, built at 320 metres above sea level. The villagers' main occupation is viticulture and the cultivation of grain, broad beans, tobacco, almond trees, olive trees, carob trees and citrus fruit. There was a time when the village had a mixed population of Greek and Turkish Cypriots, while in the Middle Ages it was a famous feudal estate, associated with the well-known medieval Cypriot song 'Arodafnousa'.

The name of the village comes from the founder and first settler of the area, who was from Syria. It is said that the name "Houlio" was the title that brought officials the Bektashi guild dervishes of Syria. Another version of the origin is that the founder of the settlement is of a Syrian family: "Goul", or the Syrian original family of the white genoas', with the surname "Guli". Later, during the reign of King Peter I Montolif and his family, whose origins were from the south of France.

The inhabitants of the village are no more than 120 locals, together with a few expats who moved permanently to the village.

EPISKOPI VILLAGE

Episkopi is a lovely traditional Cyprus village built on the west side of the River Ezousas. It is situated 12 kilometres from Paphos, 14 kilometres from the sea. The surroundings of Episkopi are characterised by a beautiful landscape with lots of citrus trees. It is an idyllic location on the east bank of the River Ezousas surrounded by greenery, as the trees by the riverbank, having an abundant supply of water, have grown dense and lofty.

The village entrance is marked by a steep rock that dominates the village and the valley underneath. Few metres away is the Saint Ilarion Church (Agios Ilarion) that dates back to 1192 (Frankish period). According to tradition, the Saint led an ascetic life in this craggy location. The cave where he lived and died in 371 AD watches over the settlement. In the village there is also a chapel of Archangelos Michael and the new church of Saint Ilarionas.

A stroll around the village reveals to visitors that the traditional core of the village remains unchanged. The village environmental information centre is surrounded by a botanical garden where the significant plants of the area, organised in thematic groups (habitats, endemics, bulbs, rare plants) may be seen. There are also many other plants typical of Cyprus which are not found in the Ezousa valley, as well as geological specimens from the main geological formations of the valley.

GILOU VILLAGE

Giolou is a village in the Pafos district 300m above sea level. There are various stories as to how it got its name, with the prevailing one being that it comes from the Greek god of the wind, Aeolos, and the Turkish Cypriot word <yol> meaning road, since the village is on the road linking Pafos with Polis. However, in view of the fact that the name appears on maps before the Ottoman occupation of Cyprus it is believed likely that the name came from its feudal owner during the Frankish period or even during the Byzantine period.

The main village church is devoted to the Virgin Mary Chryseleousa. The village has chapels devoted to Agios Georgios, Agios Markos, Agia Irini, Agios Arkadios and Profitis Elias. Giolou is an AOC wine village and in addition to its wine producing grape varieties, wheat, pulses and vegetables are also grown along the valley as well as fruit trees such as apples, olives and carobs. An old traditional flour mill still functions in the village serving almost all the surrounding villages of the Pafos district.

GOUDI VILLAGE

Goudi is a village in the Chrysochou valley of the Pafos district nestled on the banks of River Tzelepis. It is situated 100 metres above sea level and is spread over a mild hillside between 60 and 120 metres.

Cereals, pulses, tobacco, vegetables, vines, citrus, almonds, olives and carobs are grown in the area. One olive press is still working in the village. Goudi is linked to the south and southeast with the villages of Holli, Skoulli and to the east with the main road of Pafos - Polis. It is six kilometres from Polis and lies 250 metres from the River of Chrysochou.

The most important source as to the origin of the present-day settlement is De Mas Latrie (French Researcher) who mentions the village with the name 'Vouti'. According to one interpretation, the village is named after the first settler or owner of the village, who was probably called Goudis. The environment is one of sheer beauty, offering the visitor unique moments of tranquillity, while also being ideal as a base for the exploration of the surrounding area.

ARODES VILLAGE

The village of Arodes lies about 23km northeast of the town of Paphos, at an altitude of 590m above sea level. The sea is only 7km away, and the village itself is close to the Akamas Peninsula. Arodes is composed of two smaller settlements; Pano Arodes (mainly Greek Cypriot) and Kato Arodes (previously mainly Turkish Cypriot). "The mediaeval name of the village was Rhodes, from the fact that it was the property of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, whose headquarters were until 1522 in the island of Rhodes". "The Christian village contains an eighteenth-century Church of St. Kelandion, an early bishop of Paphos. To the north side of the church lies the large stone ossuary of St. Agapiticos, while the companion one of St. Misiticos is to the south. The village legend is that those who wish to win the love of a person, be it a girl or boy, come secretly at night and chip off a fragment of the sarcophagus of St. Agapiticos. This is powdered and introduced into the loved one's drink, who will immediately reciprocate the donor's passion. Conversely, should a person desire to quarrel with another, he merely carries out the same procedure with powdered stone from the ossuary of St. Misiticos. It is interesting to note that the latter is far more worn away than that of St. Agapiticos, but this is explained by the fact that its powers are much in request by young men and women who wish to change their lovers.

PANO, KATO AKOURDALIA VILLAGE

Built on a hill in the traditional architectural style of the area and situated about 23km north of Pafos, is the village of Akourdalia, split in two parts, Pano Akourdalia and Kato Akourdalia.

According to one tradition, the village acquired its name from the French phrase "au cours de l'eau" meaning in water. Another interpretation refers to the word "korda", meaning the long strong rope made in the village. This small picturesque village offers a sense of serenity and calmness, accompanied by the beautiful chirping of birds. The natural environment of the village, with the Chrysochou Valley below, is rich in vegetation, vines, carob trees, almond trees, citrus trees and grain, inviting the visitor to go on an adventure of exploration. Akourdalia is part of the Laona project. Walk through this attractive village to the Botanical and Herbal museum, the oldest such museum in Cyprus, where you will see a wide variety of Cypriot aromatic herbs. It fell into disuse for a long time but is now functioning once more, the interest of botanists and nature lovers. The village has a traditional character and it is ideal for photography. In Kato Akourdalia visit the tiny, restored medieval chapel of Agia Paraskevi, and the Millers House, set near an imposing gorge, about a 30 minute walk from the village (or a rough ride); Also visit the local community's 'Rural Life Museum', which offers the visitor an insight into local art craft and culture.

MILIOU VILLAGE

On the road from Paphos to Polis, about 13km before you reach Polis, there is a turning on the left which will take you to the little village of Miliou nestling on the Laona Plateau.

Right next door to the springs is the restored monastery of Agii Anargyri which is now being used as a spa hotel. It was founded by two brothers who used to care for the sick and dying without taking any payment for it. It is said that this is how the monastery got its name, from the Greek meaning 'without payment'.

Miliou is one of the smallest villages in Cyprus and has a population of about 60. It is also one of the greenest villages in the area, thanks to an abundant supply of spring water, surrounded by citrus groves, almond trees and vineyards. In early spring the almond trees blossoms' are a spectacular sight and the orange and lemon trees are laden with fruit.

With far-reaching mountain and valley views and unspoilt countryside, Miliou is a delightful rural setting, perfect for long walks and for those who love nature and bird watching as the village is renowned as a nesting site for nightingales. The main bird migrations, when a wide variety of species may be seen, take place in spring and autumn. If you're more interested in seeing Mother Nature's spectacular show of spring flowers, then visit between the beginning of March and the end of May. The aroma of the surrounding pine and lemon groves, brought in by the cool valley breeze, provides relief from the hot Cypriot sun.

VASILIAS NIKOKLIS INN

The inn stands on a bend on the west bank of the River Diarizos with views up the valley to the Troodos Mountains and down the valley to the sea. Hemmed in by lemon and olive groves, it is a profusion of plants of every hue, from bougainvillea to fig trees and cool, grape covered dining terraces. The rustic surroundings offer the ideal place for your holidays away from the hustle and bustle of ordinary life, you can relax under the grapevine-covered terrace or by the swimming pool enjoying the sun.

Vasilias Nikoklis history is long and goes way back. It was previously an old inn, a place for travellers to rest and feed both themselves and their animals. During 1980 the owners started to renovate the ruins and run it firstly as a tavern. After some successful years as a tavern they moved on to the next step which was to create another floor consisting of 6 bedrooms, having in total 8 rooms in which 16 guests can be accommodated. Nowadays the inn is managed by the Konstantinou family. Experience and knowledge are combined together with great success, having only one aim, to make visitors and house guests experience Cyprus tradition and hospitality and of course feel like home.

TRACHYPEDOULA VILLAGE

Trachypedoula is a small village at the west site of Cyprus near River Diarizos of Pafos district. When somebody is at Trachypedoula may have the impression as being in an airplane due to the extreme view although the elevation is only 500-600m. The name of the village derives from the words: trachy & pedouron. Trachy is the name of a place in Peloponnese (Greece) where, the first builders of Trachypedoula, came from, probably, on the 12th century BC. Pedouron means standing high up.

The village was rebuilt in the 19th century (1815-1820) after had been destroyed by earthquakes. Nearly all houses are built in a traditional way. People of Trachypedoula are well known for their hospitality. There is a copy of a picture, in Dino's house, taken by John Thomson at Trachypedoula on 1878, that shows an assembly of men discussing the best way of putting up their unexpected visitors (John Thomson and his companion).

A show of olive oil extraction in a traditional way is taking place every last Sunday of each October since 1996. A number of fresh springs occur near the village. The River Diarizos mentioned by Euripides, the tragedy writer, runs in a distance of 2.5km south of Trachypedoula. Diarizos valley – Natura 2000 - includes sites of extreme beauty and very interesting elements like: geological, botanical, mythological, historical and cultural. Some huge rocks which arrived here from Africa, 70 million years ago, are very attractive to the climbers.

ARSOS VILLAGE

The village of Arsos is one of the biggest wine producing villages in Cyprus. It lies 40 kilometres from Limassol and 45 kilometres from Pafos. It is built on the slopes of Laona Mountain, 1092 metres above sea level, with an open horizon on the Valley of the River Diarizos, as far as the sea of Pafos. Thanks to this geographical position, it enjoys a wonderful cool and dry climate in summer and therefore attracts hundreds of holidaymakers.

Arsos wine, famous since antiquity, was considered one of the best produced on the island, a reputation continuing to this day. In fact, wine making is still one of the villagers' main occupation.

Arsos acquired its name in the French Lusignian era when it was called Tarcce. Apart from the natural beauties of the village itself, today's visitor will be enchanted by the rich and attractive scenery surrounding it.

The village housewives are famous for their cooking prowess especially in preparing such typical Cypriot dishes made from wine as "palouzes", "epsima", biscuits with "epsima", "paste", "shoudzioukos", "kiofterka", "arkatena", "kattimerka", "glyko" and many others.

ARSORAMA

Arsorama is the home we inherited from our ancestors and which the government has declared preserved. Due to the many beautiful memories we have had in the years gone, by with our great grandparents, we wanted to honour their memory by bringing back life to our ancestral home. This has long been a dream come true for us and with love and attention to detail, we christened the renovated house Arsorama (Arsos + Orama – Arsos + Dream). Our intention was to provide our visitors with quality, beauty comfort, luxury, friendliness but at the same time close links with tradition.

Arsorama, consists of our holiday home and 4 independent fully equipped apartments which are all connected by a large internal stone paved garden. Years ago, the garden was a meeting place of many of the ladies of the village where they would chat and embroider together; it could in fact be likened to a female kafenio (café) where they could enjoy each other's company; our grandmother being much loved by all and always welcoming. Our grandfather, on the other hand, was well known for being the prankster and accordingly with much humour would often sprinkle the ladies with water, setting everybody into peals of laughter!! Arsorama also provides a fully equipped conference room for all types of seminars and conferences.

ANOGYRA VILLAGE

Anoyira is a small quiet, picturesque village halfway between Limassol and Pafos. It is a 25 min., drive to Limassol and a 15 min. drive to the beach. It is about 10km inland from Avdimou. It lies about 800m above sea level.

As far as houses are concerned, those that dominate are the traditional ones which are elongated, two-room and arch divided, with sitting room, upper storeys, and apses, all built with carved limestone that abounds in the village. Around the houses there is usually a tall wall with a street door. A narrow bridge over a small stream connects the west neighbourhood with the village centre. On one side of the bridge, low and alongside the riverbed, a traditional 14th century well is built. It is made from limestone and is the size of a small room. There are large faucets where water comes out.

The most impressive part of the village is the large paved central plaza surrounded by traditional, stone-made houses. A stone-made spring with a Mediaeval sculpture, considered to be one of the very few found in Cyprus, stands at the upper part of the plaza.

On entering the village you cannot fail to notice the renovated two room building that houses the Pasteli Museum. Here, the visitor can see all the equipment used for the making of the very sweet “pasteli” from carobs which come from trees all around the village. Moving on from the plaza toward the east, you pass through the paved, verdant alleys and come to the village boundary where the original Elementary School stands in silence, gazing out at Episkopi Bay and where events organised by the Village Association, particularly the “Pasteli Festival”, is held. It is organised in mid-September each year and attracts many people from all over Cyprus and abroad.

VASA KOILANIOU VILLAGE

Vasa Kilaniou the fifth vine village in Limassol, is located on the slope of Troodos mountain range, surrounded by vineyards and steep slopes wonderfully “coloured”. It is only thirty five kilometres far from the city of Limassol and it is situated at an average altitude of 750 metres. It is interesting how the village’s name is being associated with its topography; it has been named Vasa by the ancient Greek word “Vassa” or “Vessa” which means wooded valley.

Thus, the famous wine village Vasa Kilaniou or Krasoxorion has traditionally contributed in the production of high quality Cypriot wine. The inhabitants’ occupation with viticulture started in the distant past. Both, Mas Latri and Gkontry write about Vasa’s vineyards; the latter mentions that Vasa is one of the villages that “provide the best black wines”, adding that “the largest quantities of raisin are being produced in Kilani and Vasa”. The intensive cultivation of vineyards along with the wine and grapes production contributed to the economic booming and prosperity of Vasa, especially during the British Administration. The population growth from 397 in 1881 to 871 in 1946 as well as the florescence in literature and music (whose tradition dates back to the Ottoman period, in the early 19th century) is indicative of the village’s high growth. After the Second World War, Vasa, along with the rest wine villages, experienced the economic decline.

Today, the village has been developed as a touristic destination managing both, to preserve and highlight its tradition and history as well as to settle the proper infrastructure for the provision of high level hospitality.

It is worth to mention that even today Vasa’s residents continue to show clear preference for the local wine and generally for the grape juice produced by the vineyards of Vasa. Finally, it is remarkable that apart from the production of local wine, Vasa’s people keep on preparing traditional products derived from grapes, such as “soutziouko”, “palouze” and “kiofterka.”

LOFOU VILLAGE

Lofou, an enchanting village, listed by UNESCO as an architecturally important village. Little more than 20 years ago it was an abandoned village but now the inhabitants are returning and restoring the homes in keeping with their original character. The village of Lofou is in the district of the wine villages between Limassol and Paphos, about 26 kilometres northwest of the city of Limassol. Lofou is built amphitheatrically on the peak of a hill with an average altitude of 780 metres. This fact establishes Lofou as an exceptional mountainous resort since it offers a long cool period to its visitors, which lasts from Easter until October. There are no historical findings that may help us define the exact date on which 'Lofou' was founded. The area must have been inhabited since the Bronze Age. The village is built on a hill between mountains and gets its name based on this fact. The name Lofou was inspired by the Greek word 'lofos' which means 'hill'. The original name of the village was "Lofos" in the early 20th century. That can be proven by the birth certificates provided by the local primary school, on which "Lofos" was written as the birthplace of the students. Lofou, as one important wine village of the "ampelochoria" area, with the soft climate and the territorial conditions is ideal for the growth of vineyards. The local wine of Lofou is famous all over Cyprus for its excellent quality.

AGROVINO

In 1992, Costas took the decision to work with agrotourism at the same time with his agricultural occupations. That decision was finally proven to be the right one. He renovated an inherited traditional family house in the village of Lofou and he transformed it into a beautiful traditional tavern and named it after the name of the village “Lofou Tavern”. The hotel unit provides studios, cafeteria and the traditional tavern. The renovated rooms include cooker, living room, dining room, air-conditioning system and internal courtyard. The lightings, the fireplace and the general decoration of the rooms create a pleasant note and a hospitable environment with a choice of single or double bed and couches that can be used as an extra bed. In our well known traditional Lofou Tavern the centre of the hotel unit , we offer breakfast, lunch and supper in a wide variety of food and dishes. The vegetables and the fruits are always fresh from our production. The tavern offers traditional food and a wide variety of local and imported wines. And when the mood is high the owner Mr. Costas plays the bouzouki and sings with visitors. A few metres from the tavern is our cafeteria where visitors can enjoy hot and cold drinks. Visitors can enjoy Cyprus coffee and cocktails in a comfortable place with a beautiful decoration combined with the astonishing view from veranda and the soft music.

SYKOPETRA VILLAGE

The Community of Sykopetra is a mountainous village built on the eastern foothills of the Mountainous part of the Pitsilia Region of the Lemesos District. It is situated on the borders of three districts, of Lemesos, Nicosia and Larnaca. The community is approximately 30km away from Lemesos, 45km from Nicosia and 65 from Larnaca. The community of Sykopetra consists of the village of Sykopetra, which is built on an altitude of 800 metres, and the housing of Prophet Elias, which is built on an altitude of 950 metres.

Systematic archaeological research has not been conducted in the area. However, findings that have come to light certify the existence of a settlement in the area ever since the period of the Kingdoms of Cyprus (1050 B.C. – 725 B.C.). In fact, in an area near the village there is evidence proving the extraction of copper.

Place names and other evidence substantiate the historical correlation of the village's identity to its existence ever since the Byzantine period and up until the ottoman domination.

There are two versions concerning the naming of the village. The most predominant version is a legend which has been passed down from generation to generation. According to the legend, a princess named Nafsika was travelling towards her kingdom in Tamasos. While riding her horse, it slipped at the large rock found above the village and the princess was killed. According to the legend of local tradition, the horse's footprint is still evident today. The village was named after the princess, 'Nafsikopetra' but with the passing of time, it was renamed to 'Sykopetra' to facilitate pronunciation. The second version suggests that the name of the village is a combination of the words fig (syko) and rock (petra) due to the multiple fig/prickly pear trees and rocks found in the area. The settlement of Prophet Elias is more modern and according to historical sources, in the past, it was called 'Lambiris'. It was renamed by the first resident who had built the church of 'Prophet Elias' after he had found an icon of the Prophet in a river nearby. The village is known for the cultivation of tangerines and many other kinds of fruit.

EPISKOPI VILLAGE

Episkopi is a village of mixed population in the Lemesos (Limassol) district. It is situated about 14 km west of the city of Limassol and 40km east of Pafos, linked by the motorway. Most of the village comes under the jurisdiction of the British base of Akrotiri-Episkopi. Episkopi is built on the foothills of ancient Kourion with a fertile plain stretching to the south, at an altitude of 60 metres, close to the west bank of the River Kouris and overlooking the bay of Kourion. Archaeological findings, unearthed through the entire area, reveal that during the ancient times Episkopi was connected to the city of Kourion. During the first century AD, Episkopi succeeded Kourion as a regional centre a Bishop Diocese. The seat was removed during the Frankish period (after 1222) when the Orthodox Episcopal seats of the Island were reduced from 14 to 4.

De Mas Latrie says that in the 13th century Episkopi belonged to the aristocratic family of John D' Imbelin, Count of Giaffa (Jaffa). During the 14th and 15th century, the village was known under the name of La Piscopia dei Cornari (The Cornaros Episcopate) and belonged to the Cornaro family from which the last Queen of Cyprus, Catherine Cornaro, descended. The King of Cyprus Peter gave the Episcopate to the Cornaro family as a gift.

LIMASSOL REGION

APSIU VILLAGE

About twenty kilometres north of the city of Limassol, at an altitude of 410 metres above sea level, stands Apsiou. The River Garyllis flows at the foot of the village. The gardens that surround the village, with the vines across, mixed with the olive and locust trees as well as the forest that's north-east, compose a unique picturesque landscape. Apsiou was one of the villages of the "Grande Commandarie" and it is mentioned by De Mass Latrue as Apsiu and Apsius. Gunnis mentions the Church of the Virgin Mary, built in 1740, as well as the well-known monastery of Amirou. Here are several versions regarding the name of the village. One interpretation, that of Nearchos Clerides, reports that the village took its name from the first miners that worked there. They came from Naxos (Greek island), thus they were "Naxiotes", "Axiotes", "Apsioties", "Apsiou". Another version reports that several inhabitants of Apesia moved to the region and from that came the name "Apesia", "Apesiou", "Apsiou". Commandaria winery can be seen from the south of the school. Several years ago the processing of grapes for the making of Commandaria was done on site. For fifteen days the playground, the threshing floors and the surrounding fields were turned into a large drying yard where the grapes were spread out to dry. A great variety of geological formations exist here, attracting a number of scientists to the region.

FASOULA VILLAGE

The village of Fasoula is in the district of Limassol, at a distance of about 7km north of the city of Limassol. The village is built at an average altitude of 370 metres and receives an average annual rainfall of about 550 millimetres. Locust, almond, and olive trees, cereals, as well as a few citrus trees are cultivated in the area of the community. As far as stockbreeding is concerned, it only operates in a limited manner.

From the perspective of transportation, Fasoula is connected via turnpike roads to the city of Limassol on the south, and the village of Spitali in the west. It connects via a macadamised street to the village of Apsiou in the north and with the village of Mathikoloni in the east. Today the inhabitants of the community number 400. The village existed since the Medieval years and it can be found marked in old maps under the names Fasula and Pasula. However, the area of the village was inhabited ever since ancient times. Indeed, there was a temple dedicated to "Lavranius" Zeus in the southwest of the village, at a distance of about 800 meters on top of the venue named Kastros. This hilltop is today known under the name "Moutti tou Dhkia" Hilltop of Zeus. Inscriptions -all engraved on pedestals of statues-dedicated to "Lavranius" Zeus have been found on this hilltop. These inscriptions date back to the 2nd century AD, that is, at a time that Christianity had already become dominant in Cyprus. So it seems that the region of Fasoula was one of the last strongholds of paganism.

The natural environment of the village is truly unique. During springtime, the verdurous valley with its blooming almond-trees and the crops create an amazing sight. Today Fasoula attracts many locals and foreigners for short escapes.

LARNAKA REGION

East meets West in Larnaka (Larnaca) as both Christianity and Islam have revered religious sites here, with the mosque of Hala Sultan, an important Moslem place of pilgrimage, and the church of St Lazarus, Jesus' friend whom he resurrected from the dead.

The mountainous area of Larnaka (Larnaca), is dotted with charming villages and has the largest concentration of traditional houses available for rent. The listed village of Lefkara, is perhaps the most picturesque, with its narrow streets and stone houses with red-tiled roofs and internal courtyards, and a history of producing wonderful handicrafts such as filigree silverware and a traditional kind of lace known the world over as lefkaritiko. Legend has it that Leonardo da Vinci himself came here and bought an altar cloth, which he donated to the Milan Cathedral.

Amongst archaeological sites worth visiting, Choirokoitia is one of the best preserved sites of a prehistoric settlement brought to light in the Eastern Mediterranean, and has been declared an UNESCO World Heritage Site.

The church of Angeloktisti, in the village of Kiti, has one of the finest examples of Byzantine art of the Justinian period, a rare 6th century mosaic of the Virgin and Child between two archangels, while perched dramatically on a rocky peak with a panoramic view over the surrounding hillsides, sits the solitary Monastery of Stavrovouni, one of the oldest monasteries in Cyprus.

LEFKARA VILLAGE

The village is situated at the foot of the Troodos Mountains in the south eastern region, 650m above sea level. This village is famous for its lace, known as lefkaritiko and silver handicrafts. The village takes its name from the white of its silica and limestone: Lefkara derives from a combination of the Greek words leukos - white, light and oros – mountain. It is located on the southern slopes of the Troödos Mountains in the Larnaca District of Cyprus, off the main Nicosia-Limassol motorway. It features cobbled streets and picturesque architecture. The village is split into two administrative regions: upper and lower Lefkara with around 1,100 inhabitants. The embroidery of Lefkara is the ultimate form of folk art and tradition in Cyprus. It is an exceptional work of art, as lefkaritiko is considered to be a valued item of artistic creation. The patterns are inspired by nature. Due to its extraordinary character, the embroidery of Lefkara has passed on from generation to generation and has been included in the UNESCO list of Intangible Cultural Heritage in 2009. According to a legend, Leonardo Da Vinci had visited the village in 1481 and bought embroidery for the Holy Altar of the Milan Cathedral.

Near the area where most shops are located, one can also find the workshop of Cypriot loukoumi called 'Ta Orea Lefkara' which has been awarded several times for its delicious desserts. Also don't leave the village before you taste Lefkara famous tavas (meat with rice and vegetables) from the village restaurants.

AMPLE PLACES

In Greek, Monadiko means unique, something unlike anything else, one of a kind.

This rural place is a spacious house (122 m²) of traditional mountainous architecture, which was constructed in the late 18th century to accommodate the cooperative commercial bank of the village.

Later on it was transformed into a coffee shop and right before its last renovation, it was used as a storing facility for packaging carobs. The building was especially restored in order to accommodate a family or a group of friends.

In Greek, Polytimo means precious, valuable, an object of high importance.

This rural place is a spacious house (175 m²) of traditional mountainous architecture, which was constructed in the early 12th century to accommodate the residence, the stalls, a stone olive press and an olive-oil cellar. The building has been carefully restored with the utmost care and exceptional workmanship. Its individually selected furnishings, art pieces and antique objects have been chosen with special attention, aiming to offer a unique experience to its guests.

CHOIROKOITIA VILLAGE

The village of Choirokoitia is an archaeological landmark and the site of a Neolithic settlement which bears witness to a fascinating worldview that prevailed some 9000 years ago. Located about 30 minutes' drive from Nicosia, Limassol and Larnaka. Choirokoitia's convenient location provides easy access to the Island's natural, cultural and tourist attractions. Choirokoitia constitutes the most impressive example of the initial establishment of sedentary communities on the island and the development of an original civilisation: the Cypriot Aceramic Neolithic. These communities originated from the neighbouring mainland and settled in Cyprus at the end of the 7th millennium B.C. bringing with them plants and animals unknown until then to Cyprus. The inhabitants of Choirokoitia used diabase, a hard stone, for the manufacturing of stone vessels, which constitute a particular characteristic of the Cypriote Aceramic Neolithic. The brilliant civilisation vanished suddenly, and no adequate explanation has been given regarding its disappearance. In December 1998 the site was inscribed on the UNESCO World Cultural Heritage List.

Activities and Places of Interest

Visit the church of Agios Iacovos, Agia Paraskevi, Agios Georgios and Panayia of Kampos, Follow the Nature trail of the village which ends at the archaeological Neolithic settlement of Choirokoitia. The beach is only few km away from the village.

LARNAKA REGION / CHOIROKOITIA VILLAGE

THE HOUSE OF ACHILLES

The listed stone house was built in the 19th century by the owner's family. The house was completely restored in 2006. The occupants of the house at the turn of the century were farmers who cultivated wheat and barley using oxen, and harvested carob and olive trees in the valley below. The women of the house spun and loomed silk, cured pork, kept fowl, harvested the crops and worked lace for the merchants of Lefkara. They brought their wine by donkey from the nearby mountain village of Vavla. Inside the house is a fine example of a Palati, a double vaulted arched room with stone flooring that is a cool and elegant sitting room. The house is air-conditioned and centrally heated. Three double bedrooms are all en-suite. The dining room will sit 8-10 comfortably. A terrace runs the length of the house and overlooks the swimming pool. This house offers the peace and tranquillity of the past with all modern conveniences.

KATO DRY'S VILLAGE

Kato Dry's is located to the south-west of the city of Larnaka. It stands in the middle of three cities, Nicosia, Larnaka and Limassol. It is built at an altitude of about 520 meters above sea level. The hilly terrain of the village with its narrow, deep valleys is intersected by the Saint Minas River. There are two interpretations as to how the village got its name. The first says that the village got its name from the many 'Dryes' (oak trees). A second interpretation says that many years ago there were two villages, Pano Dry's and Kato Dry's (Upper and Lower Dry's) with a large Oaktree standing between the two. Kato Dry's has a rich history and interesting architecture, flora and fauna with perfect cool dry climate in summer and a mild winter. The occupation of most of the village inhabitants is raising stock and, to a limited degree agriculture. Today great tracks of land in the village have been planted with various wine-making varieties of grapes, providing occupation to many of the village's inhabitants. The village has the biggest vineyard of Larnaka region of a total area of 150 hectares.

KALAVASOS VILLAGE

Kalavassos is an ideal traditional village setting for holidays to Cyprus, where visitors can explore this beautiful island, including the many archaeological sites nearby, whilst enjoying the traditional Cypriot lifestyle. Kalavassos is included in the Vasilikos - Pentaschoinos watering project and has benefited from the construction of the Kalavassos dam and the irrigation of significant tracts of land.

Centrally located, approximately midway between Larnaka and Limassol and not far from the sea, this is the ideal place to combine exploring the country with relaxation on the beach. The name Kalavassos originates from the ancient Greek word 'vassa' which means woody valley and the village dates back to medieval times. The village was once a thronging copper mining area and the remains of the mines and trains can still be seen. The Kalavassos region, privileged in many respects, mainly because of the Vasilikos River that secured irrigation and watering and also because of its metal-bearing deposits, was densely populated since ancient times. Today the region is a very significant archaeological site. The "Tenta" settlement - as well as the other settlements discovered in the region - present a special interest.

Today the village is an idyllic setting where you can experience the real heart and soul of Cyprus and maybe while away an hour or two over a coffee in the village square, with locals who are always welcoming and willing to sit and chat to you. The Cyprus Villages office in Tochni (5km from Kalavassos) offers a wide range of activities for those of you who want to discover the real life of the area.

MARONI VILLAGE

The village of Maroni is found built about 35 kilometres southwest of Larnaca. It has an average altitude of 70 metres, the altitude reaching 200 metres in the north of the village, and has a distance of 2 kilometres from the sea. The village receives an average annual rainfall of about 380 millimetres; citrus fruits (lemons, grapefruits, oranges), cereals, forage plants, olive and locust trees, and various types of vegetables are cultivated in the region. Several greenhouses have been installed in the area for the cultivation of early vegetables. Stockbreeding in the village is limited. There are four units of sheep and goat breeding, two poultry farms, a hatchery, and an ultramodern pigsty. The village preserves - to a great extend - its traditional architecture with the narrow streets, the stone-made houses with local stone, the houses with the picturesque upper levels with balconies, the arches and the front doors with chiselled frames. In the context of preserving this heritage, a large part of the old village has been deemed as a landmark and many houses have been renovated in the same style. Maroni existed since the medieval times. In old maps it is found marked as Marova. According to De Masse Latrie, the village was a feud that belonged to Royal estates during the period of Frankish era. However he erroneously places it in the region of Kythrea.

Activities and Places of Interest

Go for swimming in the village's beach. Visit Saint George church, Ayii Anargyroi church and the chapels of Saint George's and Saint Nicolaos. SKARINOU VILLAGE

Right at the heart of Cyprus, 190 metres above sea level and surrounded by hills, lies the picturesque village of Skarinou. Located near three of the main towns of the island, Nicosia, Limassol and Larnaka, right off the main motorway interconnecting these three towns, Skarinou combines the qualities of country life with the luxuries of life in town. Built on the side of the hill with the unique Cypriot terrain as its background, Skarinou preserves its traditional architecture. The houses resemble the old traditional stone buildings reminiscent of days passed and gone. And as with most small villages in Cyprus, Skarinou's dominant land mark is the church of The Guiding Virgin Mary (Panagia Hodegetria) which stands proud and tall at the entrance of the village, welcoming both locals and visitors. Furthermore, the old style identity of the village remains intact with its narrow streets leading to squares and natural openings. Houses with central courtyards and heavy, big entrance doors (outer-doors known in Greek as ksoportia) are still found all over the village which is built in different levels due to the morphology of the ground.

In this small village, where architectural structure blends in with nature and modernisation co-exists with tradition, culture and customs have survived through time. A walk through the village may lead you to see women embroidering or knitting in their courtyards or even making the traditional halloumi. Do not be surprised if you are called in by these hospitable people to be treated to a homemade sweet or a cup of coffee.

Activities and Places of Interest

Visit the church of Guiding Virgin Mary and the chapels of Saint George and Apostolos Loucas. The 'Environmental Information Centre of Larnaka Mountainous Areas' - located in the village is worth a visit in order to learn more about 18 rural areas of Larnaka region (Flora, Fauna and Culture). Visit the Golden Donkeys Farm and Dipotamos Donkey Farm. You can also see the Donkey milk beauty products. Skarinou tavern, Olive Restaurant, Classic Car Inn and Ktima Georgiades are very good options of tasting Cyprus traditional food.

TOCHNI VILLAGE

Tochni is a village located in the Larnaca District of Cyprus, about halfway between the cities of Larnaca and Limassol. Based on some religious and folkloric traditions, Tochni is among the oldest villages in Cyprus, with a history more than ten, perhaps twenty centuries. Despite the infrequent mention of it in historical or archaeological sources, careful research and study on the village will reveal enough data regarding the long course of its life. Tochni village is noted in some medieval maps called Togni, which indicates the existence of irrefutable, at least from the period of Latin. The medieval existence of the villages is attested by historians of the middle-ages, as the Cypriot chronicler Leontios Machairas and Latin writer De Mas Latrie. The testimonies revolve around the building of a temple and placement in these sacred relics, from the Queen Mother St. Helen, after her return from the Holy Land. Another medieval testimony refers to the granting of Tochni as a manor in the years of the Frankish presence on the island. Today the village has been designated an 'agrotourism' location which promotes the restoration of the original village house in order to preserve the traditional Cypriot stone houses. The majority of properties use 'Tochni Stone' which is quarried nearby. There are the ruins of a Latin church in the centre of the village, overlooking the Orthodox church of St Constantine and Helena. The current church has been reconstructed on the site of the original, interestingly over a bridge, said to have been founded by St Helena on return from the Holy Land having brought with her a piece of the Holy Cross.

Activities and Places of Interest

Visit the village Church of St. Constantine and Helena, the chapel of Agia Barbara and Sotiros Christou Church. You can also visit the Stavros Ruined Church of Saints Constantine and Helen on a small hill, a few surviving ruins of another church that operated in the community. TROULLOI VILLAGE

The village falls within the administrative borders of Larnaka and it is built on an altitude of 120 metres and at a distance of 15 km from the city of Larnaka. The community's main topographical feature is that it is surrounded by hills shaped like domes (Troulloi) and this is where the naming of the village probably derived from. The highest hill is the hill named "Karavos", which reaches an altitude of 256 metres and which is located west of the village. The area of the village has been inhabited ever since the ancient years, during which time the local mine, which is located within the administrative borders of the community, was intensively exploited. In fact, according to a tradition which seems relevant to the existence of the mine, Hephaestus, god of fire, established his workshop in the area of Troulloi when he was exiled from Olympus for giving fire to humans. Hephaestus' wife, Aphrodite, was worshipped near the community of Troulloi and more specifically at the ancient site of Golgoi, near Athienou. Located in the area of the village there was possibly a temple dedicated to some Nymph, as this is revealed by an inscription found on a broken clay vessel which was discovered in the area. As far as the population of the village is concerned. Today it numbers approximately 1100 residents and several large families.

As far as their occupations were concerned, in the past the residents of the village mainly dealt with farming and live-stock breeding. Due to the low annual rainfall of the area –approximately 300 mm – people in the village mainly cultivated wheat and barley, as well as olive and carob trees which are cultivations that do not require frequent irrigation. Operating in the community today is a grocery store, a bakery, a boutique, hair salons, flower shops, butcher shops, a construction materials shop, sanitation equipment storage facilities, a car workshop, a marble factory and a lot more, most of which constituting family businesses. Also, spread in the area are several live-stock breeding units which breed cows and goats and sheep. However, several residents continue to work as farmers, while others are employed in the neighbouring city.

VAVLA VILLAGE

Vavla is a rather small, quiet and peaceful mountain village located in the foothills of the Troodos mountain range in the Larnaca district of Cyprus at 450 metres above sea level. It is a location of plenty interesting places to visit only a short drive away, local winery, monastery, archaeological sites, nature trails and woodland walks. Wildlife enthusiasts will be fascinated by the local flora and fauna. Today Vavla is experiencing a renaissance as it has been declared by the government as a “preserved cultural history location” and many of the dilapidated houses are restored with historical accuracy to their original state, albeit featuring all amenities for comfortable, modern-style living. The soil at Vavla is relatively fertile and it is suitable for growing olives, carob, citrus fruit (tangerines, oranges, lemons) vines and cereals. The production of oil, carob and other agricultural products, along with farming were the main occupations of the inhabitants in the past. The women’s occupation was lefkaritiko embroidery, which gave a significant supplementary income to the household. Today, one of the main occupations and crafts of our village is beekeeping. The village produces the honey “Vavla” which is sold all over Cyprus. In Vavla there is a lot of thyme and wildflowers which are the main ingredients of this honey.

Activities and Places of Interest

Visit the 2 churches of Saint George and Archangel Michael and the chapel of the Virgin of Love. One of the largest operating convents in Cyprus is located 2 km east of Vavla along the road leading to the village of Kato Drys. This is the convent of Agios Minas. Follow the wine route no. 7 Larnaca-Nicosia region that passes through the village. Walk in the nature trails that start from the village 7 km long circular and follows a magical path, alternating along the St. Minas stream and mountaintops. The trail starts from the center of the village, passing the chapel of the Lady of Love and returns to the center of the village. It takes about 3 hours. Another nature trail, 3.4 kilometers, gives the opportunity to enjoy nature within 1 ½ hour. NICOSIA REGION

Centrally located on the island, Nicosia serves as the administrative, political, financial and cultural capital of Cyprus.

Nicosia may not have sandy beaches to offer, but its visitors are more than compensated by a wealth of cultural attractions that combine authentic Cypriot culture with modern European amenities. Nicosia is an attractive, enticing city; ideal for experiencing what modern Cyprus is all about. There are great restaurants here, from traditional taverns with bouzouki players and generous portions of meze, to ultramodern, fashionable joints, where young Cypriots dance the night away. As the Cypriot capital, Nicosia is home to some of the island's most significant museums. The Cyprus Archaeological Museum, the Archbishop Makarios III Foundation - Cultural Centre, the Ethnographic Museum, the National Struggle Museum, Leventio Museum, the Ethnological Museum and the House of Hatzigeorgakis Kornosios that received the Europe Nostra award in 1988.

In the Old City surrounded by the Venetian Walls, one may discover the city's historic past unfold into a magical labyrinth of museums, old churches and medieval buildings.

The New City outside the walls is in a constant state of development, with modern buildings and structures that add a distinctive European character and culture.

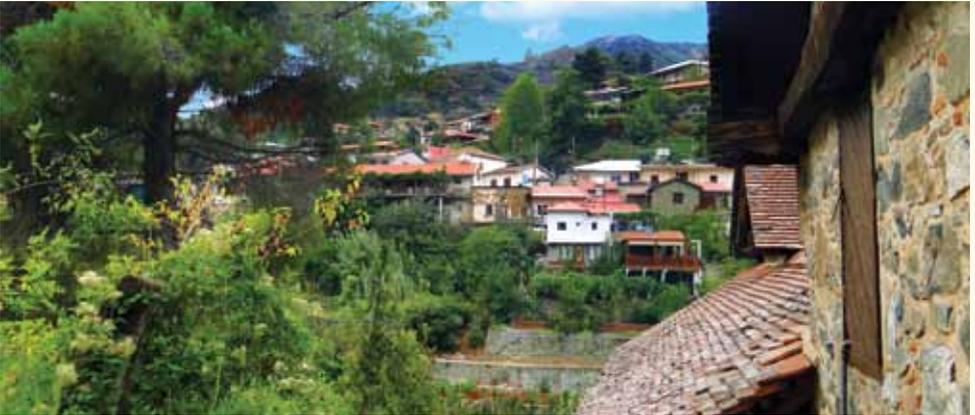

The regional countryside of Nicosia is full of diverse attractions and is well-known for its traditional products such as gammon, sausages, lountza (smoked pork loin) and varied spoon sweets.

Once you have walked around the city of Nicosia, do not hesitate to escape to its surrounding areas. From Machairas Forest and its historic monastery to the tip of the Troodos Mountains, there is much to discover. Although it was abandoned during the 19th century Phikardou Village has been declared an important historical landmark and is a testament to traditional architecture and woodworks from the 18th century. The village is also home to the Agricultural Museum. Two of the best walking routes in the area are Madari Circular Walk (13 km long) and the logistically more difficult route connecting the Unesco World Heritage churches of Stavros tou Agiasmati and Panagia tou Araka (an 8km long linear route). The walks can be combined with stops at beautiful churches, picturesque villages and possibly watermills and/or medieval bridges.

KALOPANAGIOTIS VILLAGE

Kalopanagiotis is one of the most interesting mountain resorts in Cyprus. It is located in the Marathasa Valley on the Troodos range at an altitude of 700 metres. Its history dates back to pre-Christian period. The recorded founding of the village was in the 11th century, its name being derived from the first resident of the village ('kalos panagiotis' means "noble Panagiotis" in English). The Lampadistis Monastery – UNESCO heritage site – is the main pole of attraction. The village is famous for the sulphur springs which can be found at the banks of River Setrachos next to the Venetian bridge. The healing properties of the waters were known since antiquity. The whole area was part of the ancient Kingdom of Soli whose kings used the area as their wellness resort combining it with their hunting outings. In the area there was a spa dedicated to the god Asclepius, the ancient god of healing and was situated on the same spot where the Saint John Lampadistis Monastery stands today. The spa waters have been used throughout the ages to this day for their healing properties.

Today, the ancient spa village of Kalopanagiotis is a regenerated destination, ready to welcome guests from Cyprus and beyond. It is a place that combines sightseeing, nature, health and tradition, in a truly beautiful way.

Activities and Places of Interest

ASKAS VILLAGE

The village of Askas in the district of Pitsilia is situated southwest of Nicosia, at an altitude of about 900m above sea level. Its main features are the steep mountains which the river Askas crosses, deep valleys and various streams. The villagers' main occupation is viniculture, the cultivation of vegetables and pulses, fruit trees, olive trees as well as almond, hazelnut and walnut trees. Goats are bred mainly for the villagers' needs. Here you can also taste "zivania", a locally distilled spirit - don't forget to ask for it! The village was named after Manolis Askas, a rich landowner in 1462. Main attractions include the medieval church of St. John the Baptist (16th century), the church of the Holy Cross and the Agia Paraskevi and Agia Christina church dating back to the year 1411 (3 km from the village). Visitors will note the narrow paved alleys, the earthen casks of various sizes inside the village houses, evidence of the large quantity of wine that the village once produced.

LYHNOS

Lyhnos (Oil-lamp) is a small 200 traditional mansion in the village of Askas which has been recently renovated to welcome you. The four suites of Lyhnos offer luxurious and comfortable accommodation, whilst retaining their traditional warm character. In their renovation, we followed faithfully the architecture and style of the era and the region, combining it harmoniously with quality amenities and elegant decor. Although each of the suites is unique, as it was shaped on the basis of the particular characteristics of the building and its history, they all have a common component: they all create among guests' feelings of warmth, beauty and relaxation.

The area that used to be the stable, the store-room and the cellar of the house, has been turned into Lyhnos Tavern. Next to the comfortable dining rooms, reminiscent of the medieval times, there is an impressive traditional oven in the reception area, a separate wine cellar and a large terrace overlooking the mountains. The fireplace and the soft music accompany the special dishes made from fresh seasonal local produce, accompanied by wine selected from the best wineries of the island.

GALATA VILLAGE

Galata is located 60 kilometres west of Nicosia in the beautiful valley of Solea. It has an altitude of 620 metres above sea level. It is built in the two banks of the River Klarios that crosses through it and it is literally drowning in green. Galata is famous for its tasty fruits that it produces in large quantities, especially apples of every variety, apricots, peaches, cherries, damsons, grapes, and others, as well as a variety of fresh vegetables. Galata has many churches, the church of "Panagia Podithou" has been included in the UNESCO 10 Byzantine churches of Cyprus that were deemed to be of particular importance and were included in the list of World cultural heritage. One tradition regarding the village's name the people who lived in the lower lands, the "katochorites" (lower-village inhabitants), went there in order to buy milk. The people would say amongst them "let's go over there to the <galataes> (plural, milkmen) and buy some milk". Out of "galataes", always according to tradition, came the name Galata. Another tradition reports that the first settlers came from Galatia of Asia Minor and were named "Galates" (Byzantine era). So their small settlement was named Galata. According to Greek mythology, Cyprus was the first land that Aphrodite set foot on; where Pygmalion begged her to let him be with the statue that he created in her image. Aphrodite brought the statue to life and Pygmalion married Galata. It is a popular summer tourist destination (especially amongst locals) for its cooler climate in the summer months.

LINOS INN

Linus Inn is a complex of old houses that has been restored and transformed under the regulations of the Cyprus Tourism Organisation within the framework of Agrotourism, so as to establish a superb homely environment offering a traditional experience that can be truly enjoyed. The term linos refers to the very old place where with very primitive methods, grapes were squeezed for wine making. Because such linos were found in these old houses we restored, it was decided to name the inn Linos Inn. Linos Inn consists of various types of accommodation including studios, double-bed rooms and suites the Linus Restaurant offering international and Cypriot cuisine, and a coffee shop.

LYTHRODONTAS VILLAGE

Lythrodontas is a village of the Nicosia district, some 31km south of the capital and built at 420m above sea level. The village is well-known for its olive groves mainly cultivated for oil production. The scenery around Lythrodontas is rich in wild vegetation, mostly pine trees and thyme. It is also rich in cultivations of citrus and other type of fruit, vines, vegetables, pulses, walnuts and grain.

The village is also involved in raising livestock, while the women do a lot of tailoring and embroidery work. The area was originally settled in the Hellenistic period but the village derives its name from its first inhabitant of the Byzantine years, Erithrodontas. Characteristic features of the village are the two stone-built dam locks and one of the most interesting sites is the abandoned monastery of Profitis Elias. Moreover nature lovers can visit Kyprovasa or follow a nature trail towards Machairas. The visitors of Lythrodontas will enjoy its unique natural beauty in combination with the comfort and services offered by a big and developed village. They can also avail of the village swimming pool, horse riding school, linear park, biking.

Activities and Places of Interest

Visit the two water dams which are located in the "Zahara" area and near the road which leads to Profitis Elias. The "Lefkothea (Aetomouti) nature trail begins 3km from the village and ends in Lefkara village, covering a distance of about 1.3 kilometres.

AVLI HOUSE

In the traditional neighbourhood of Lythrodontas village lies Avli (Georgallides Courtyard), an exquisite example of popular architecture consisting of three old brick buildings with wooden roofs and tiles, unified upon their restoration.

Because of its noteworthy traditional character, the entire complex has been declared an antique building by the authorities and all materials and techniques used for its restoration are traditional and indigenous to the area.

Avli has five bedrooms, each with its own private bathroom. Some of the characteristic elements you will enjoy are the reception area with its carved arch and tiled floor, the large kitchen and fireplace, covered verandas with magnificent view of the village and the hilly environment surrounding it, as well as the sunroom on the raised section of the building.
